

About the Artist

Carl Malley is a self taught artist based in Brough, Cumbria, is an emerging artist, fascinated by the wildlife of the surrounding dales and fells. Carl has always enjoyed drawing from a young age and feels privileged to be able to do something he loves and others might enjoy. He works in a variety of media using coloured pencils, soft pastels, and technology to create marvellously detailed studies. His subjects alongside his passion for animals and birds include landscapes and the human figure.

Carl exhibits at Warcop over May Bank Holiday and Kirby Stephen and displays on the walls of Cafe Fresh in Middleton-in-Teesdale introducing his work to a wider audience. As a result his work is in numerous local collections, both as originals, prints and even soft furnishings. He is regularly commissioned to create portraits of pets and farm animals.

Carl has recently been discovered and selected by Castle Fine Arts Gallery in Appleby to hold his first solo exhibition The Wild Side of the Lakes & Dales from mid February and March.
